February ECO tip

Swap to a reusable water bottle

Carbon footprint

Bottled water can have a carbon footprint that's 300–1,000 times higher than tap water. This is because of the energy and resources used to produce, transport, and package the water.

Plastic pollution

Plastic bottles can take hundreds of years to break down in landfills, and they can pollute waterways and oceans.

Resource extraction

Producing bottled water requires a lot of resources, including oil and water.
